

Endowed Internal Funding Sources for Faculty Development

Name:

Fund:

Amelia V. Gallucci-Cirio Faculty Development Fund

Established by Amelia V. Gallucci-Cirio, class of 1938, the faculty development fund that bears her name was created to support activities and projects that promote her long-held interest in the study of Italian language, culture, and Western civilization. Each year, the fund supports projects that conform to the following guidelines established by the gift agreement:

- PRIMARY PURPOSE: To sponsor faculty scholarly development to perpetuate Italian language and culture through research, academic programming, and publication; funding to support faculty academic research of Italian culture and Western civilization; scholarly publication in Italian Studies and/or Western civilization; visiting professorships and academic programming at Fitchburg State; or supplemental funding for faculty to pursue Italian language instruction.
- SECONDARY PURPOSE: To support foreign travel by faculty to advance their research and publication in areas related to Italian language, culture, history, literature, art, philosophy of Italy and/or Western civilization.

Six (6) individual awards of up to $7,500, or the equivalent (available amount could vary depending on fund performance).

Ann Hyland Zimmerman Irish Culture Endowment

Established by Ann Hyland Zimmerman, class of 1938, the Ann Hyland Zimmerman Irish Culture Endowment was created with the goal of perpetuating the vibrant Irish culture in Fitchburg in the 1940s and 1950s. This award is intended to foster understanding and the perpetuation of Irish history, arts, and culture and their impact in Fitchburg and surrounding area. The fund supports activities that include, but are not limited to:

- Faculty research on Irish studies;
- Faculty-led short-term study abroad opportunities for students;
- Student/faculty collaborative research on Irish history, immigration, etc.;
- Programming with shared costs in collaboration with other organizations (such as the Irish Consulate in Boston) or institutions (such as other universities with Irish Studies programs);
- Supporting Irish cultural events, with entertainment related to, and not merely influenced by, Irish culture and history;
- Studying the impact of Irish immigrants in the immediate and extended areas of North Central Massachusetts.

Preference will be given to applicants who demonstrate the potential to have the greatest impact on maintaining and fostering an appreciation of Irish culture in the Fitchburg area.

Four (4) individual awards of up to $7,500, or the equivalent (available amount could vary depending on fund performance).

The Jewish Heritage Endowment

The Jewish Heritage Endowment was created to support programming related to Judaic culture by promoting an understanding and appreciation at Fitchburg State of Jewish history, culture and heritage. Examples of the ways this goal can be accomplished include but are not limited to:

- Faculty research on Jewish studies;
- Student/faculty collaborative research on Jewish history, culture, etc.;
- Honoring and celebrating Jewish history, culture and heritage through an annual theme and events that depict that theme;
- Supporting cultural events, with activities related to Jewish culture and history;
- Studying the impact of Jewish communities in the immediate and extended area of North Central Massachusetts.

Preference will be given to applicants who demonstrate the potential to have the greatest impact on maintaining and fostering an appreciation of Jewish culture in the Fitchburg area.

Two (2) individual awards of up to $7,500, or the equivalent (available amount could vary depending on fund performance)

Women in Today's Society Endowment

The Endowment for Women in Today's Society (WITS) was created to support the contributions made by women of Fitchburg State University as scholars, teachers, and contributors to the world of higher education, politics, and the broader community. The fund can provide support for conference attendance, speakers coming to campus during Women's History Month and related events. Examples of the ways this goal can be accomplished include but are not limited to:

- Faculty research on women's studies;
- Student/faculty collaborative research on women's history, etc.;
- Honoring and celebrating the contributions of women through events that depict that theme;
- Studying the impact of women's political contributions in the immediate and extended area of North Central Massachusetts.

Preference will be given to applicants who demonstrate the potential to have the greatest impact on maintaining and fostering an appreciation of women's history and culture in the Fitchburg area.

Four (4) individual awards of up to $2,500, or the equivalent (available amount could vary depending on fund performance).
